2ND ANNUAL

Head and Neck Cancer Symposium: A Multidisciplinary Approach

Friday, April 17, 2020

Jefferson Alumni Hall | 1020 Locust Street, Philadelphia, PA 19107

This continuing education conference offers participants an active learning format featuring didactic lectures, panel discussions that will include audience interaction, patient cases, and updates on clinical findings on diagnosis, treatment and management plans for patients with head and neck cancer. Participants will also be able to examine head and neck cancer cases from multiple perspectives with a multidisciplinary approach to care.

Join us as we bring together physicians and faculty from across Jefferson, representing Departments of Otolaryngology – Head and Neck Surgery, Radiation Oncology, Medical Oncology, Pathology and Research.

HIGHLIGHTED TOPICS

- Innovation in Pre-Operative Clinical Trials
- Advancing the Care of Locally Advanced Head and Neck Cancer Patients
- New Frontiers in Metastatic and Recurrent HNSCC
- Keynote address: Immunotherapy in HNSCC
