CONFERENCE DESCRIPTION

Join us for the third Thomas Jefferson University conference designed specifically for infertility counseling sponsored by the Department of Obstetrics & Gynecology in Philadelphia, PA. Clinicians are facing more challenges for infertility counseling due to advances in assisted reproductive technologies and associated psychological, ethical and legal issues that accompany those advancements. The first day is a dual track program and introduces fundamental concepts in reproductive medicine. Track 1 offers skills training with theory; Track 2 offers advanced testing interpretation skill building; the second and third days are more advanced training drawn from "real life" cases as well as ethics training, and a novel "psychology lab" (using live actors) for exploration of the inter-professional challenges associated with complex clinical cases.

CONFERENCE OBJECTIVES

Wednesday, May 18: Fundamentals and Advanced Testing and Reports

At the conclusion, participants should be able to:

- Describe the different types of families made possible by ART, gamete donation and surrogacy.
- Summarize the legal issues and challenges for families of ART, gamete donation and surrogacy.
- Identify the challenges to providers in counseling these new ART families.

Thursday, May 19: Advanced Clinical Practice

At the conclusion, participants should be able to:

- Describe the current psychological issues for LGBT families.
- Summarize the legal vulnerabilities in providing mental health counseling with family building.
- Discuss the different roles for mental health professionals with educating, counseling and screening stakeholders.

Friday, May 20: Ethics

At the conclusion, participants should be able to:

- Identify the psychosocial challenges with withdrawing from a case or disengaging a patient.
- Identify areas of need for gamete donors and donor-conceived persons.
- Describe the consent considerations in third party parenting.
